

THE INVENTOR'S ABYSS

Kaito built a tiny submarine. He wanted to explore the ocean. Down, down, down he went!

Suddenly, Kaito saw a glowing city. Towers of coral and crystal sparkled. 'Wow!' he said.

A mermaid princess swam up to Kaito. 'I am Marena,' she said.
'Our city is in trouble. A giant kraken has been attacking us!'

They went to see Elder Coral. He was a wise old turtle. 'You need the Pearl of Insight,' he said. 'It will show you the kraken's secret.'

They found the Pearl of Insight in a hidden shrine. It glowed with a soft light. Marena picked it up gently.

The pearl showed them the kraken. It was huge and scary. But the arrow pointed to its eye. 'Its eye is the weakness!' Kaito said.

Kaito shone his submarine's light into the kraken's eye. The monster roared and let go of the city. Marena cheered. The kraken swam away into the deep.

The merpeople were happy. 'Thank you, Kaito!' they said. Kaito smiled. 'I will come back and visit,' he promised. Then he sailed home, ready for his next adventure.
