

YUKI'S HUNDRED HUGS COUNTDOWN

Yuki woke up and gave Mama a sleepy hug. 'One!' she said, and started counting.

After a snack, Yuki gave Mama a sticky hug. 'Two!' she said, but then she forgot what came next.

Yuki had a big tantrum. Then she felt sorry. She gave Mama a hug. 'Three?' she whispered.

Yuki tried to put a sticker on the chart for every hug. But the stickers stuck to her nose instead!

Yuki found a book about bunnies. She read for a while, then remembered: 'Hug!' She hugged Mama but forgot the number.

Yuki built a tower. Then she hugged Mama. 'Is that four?'
She hugged again. 'Maybe five?' She lost count.

At bedtime, Yuki gave Mama a big, cozy hug. 'I think that was one hundred!' she said, yawning.

Mama hugged her tight. 'Every hug counts, my sweet Yuki. You have given me more than one hundred hugs today.' Yuki smiled and fell asleep, dreaming of hugs.
